Lisa Jasper is an experienced Board Director with significant professional experience in strategic planning, business transformation, and organizational culture. Specifically, she brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to advise executives on business transformations leveraging technology. Her non-profit experience includes multiple governance and committee leadership roles.

Lisa’s twenty-five-year consulting career evolved from software development to technology strategy to business transformation. She currently serves as CEO of Thought Ensemble, a company she co-founded in 2008. The company originally specialized in technology strategy and has evolved to help clients through the full life cycle of business transformation, from strategy and design through execution and change enablement. She leads all P&L activities for TE, which is forecasting to double in size and generate over $10M in revenues this year. She also advises TE’s clients on strategic planning, leadership alignment, business transformation, company culture, and organizational change management.

Her non-profit board experience has included serving on multiple boards of directors, with current positions on the Big Brothers Big Sisters of Colorado State Board, where she serves on the Strategy Committee, and the Trinity University Board of Visitors. In the past, she has held board leadership roles for Denver Business Series, Trinity University, and The Fuqua School of Business and committee leadership positions for Colorado Technology Association and Open World Learning.

She is known as a strategic, inclusive, and energetic leader.
